

THE SIGNAL.

DAHLONEGA, GA., June 8, 1884.

LOCAL ITEMS.

—"My Randy!"

—Good morning.

—The DAILY boometh!

—The Besser Spring will be largely visited this evening.

—Visitors should not fail to call on R. M. Smith, the barber.

—The rains on yesterday and day before were very refreshing.

—Mr. J. O. Bolding, of Wolley's Ford, is attending Commencement.

—Mrs. H. H. Perry, of Gainesville, came in yesterday evening.

—There will be no school at the Methodist Church this morning.

—Geo. T. Wills, class '83, of Plainsville, came in Thursday evening.

—The College Chapel has been nicely upholstered by the young ladies.

—A large attendance is expected at the Baptist Sunday School this evening.

—The Methodist church organ will do service at the College chapel to-day.

—Lieut. Robt. E. Junkin, we are sorry to say, is still in very feeble health.

—The artillery of the clouds exchanged shots with the college cannons Friday night.

—Mr. A. D. Lipscomb, of Clarksville, has returned to see us after an absence of seven years.

—Orders for the Sunday edition of the DAILY must be sent in to-morrow morning by 8 o'clock.

—Chancellor Mell reached here yesterday evening, to preside over the Commencement exercises.

—Rev. A. J. Jarrell, of Gainesville, arrived yesterday evening, and stopped with Mr. A. G. Wimpy.

—Some of our friends have said that the DAILY SIGNAL was about twenty years ahead of time. So is Dahlonega!

—A young country subscriber asked us yesterday when they would "shoot them big guns." He promises to come and hear them.

—The students who have "affectionate sweet-hearts" in D., are beginning to present sad faces; thoughts of parting, of course.

—"Be still sad heart, and cease repining; Thy fate is the common fate of all. Into each life some rain must fall."

—A telegram was received last Thursday stating that Mrs. M. F. Whitten, mother of Mrs. D. W. Lewis, died June 4th at the home of Capt. A. S. Reid, near Eatonton, Ga. Mrs. Whitten was buried in the old family burial ground in Hancock county.

—Capt. H. E. Wilson, of Egypt, Ga., is here.

—Mrs. A. S. Ried, of Eatonton, Ga., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. D. W. Lewis.

—The Corona Hedera Society rehearsed at the College last night. A good entertainment is promised by the young ladies.

—If you want a good photograph—do you know Early Rogers? Well, he's here this week and it's a mighty good chance to get a good picture cheap.

—Married, on Thursday the 5th instant at the residence of the bride in this Co., by D. M. Davis Esq., Mr. H. C. Duckett to Mrs. Sugar Ray, all of this county.

—Why yes, the young ladies of that mountain party took high ground—the highest in the State it is said—and some of them got their blood up, too, we hear.

—Hon. Frank Rice and wife, of Atlanta, arrived yesterday evening. Mr. Rice is the donor of the handsome Rice Medal, and an enthusiastic friend of the College.

—Miss Pauline Patrick, of Greenville, S. C., is visiting at Hon. W. P. Price's. We are glad to hear that she will assist the young ladies of the Corona Hedera Society Monday night.

—There was quite an enjoyable social given at the residence of Mr. Wm. J. Worley last Friday night. There was a large crowd of young folks present and all enjoyed themselves finely.

—Mr. C. N. King, of Spring Place, Ga., once more smiles upon the streets of the "Golden City." Mr. King is clerk of the court of Murray, and is one of the leading politicians of the day.

—The Phi Mu Society met last night in order to give each member a chance to make his farewell address. A great many very impressive speeches were made, especially those of the senior class.

—The Decora and Phi Mu Literary Societies held joint meeting yesterday at 10:30 o'clock, and many were the agreeable expressions that came from the warm and earnest hearts of each society.

—We regret to say that we have received a letter from Mr. Calvin Henderson, of the graduating class of 1882, which indicates that he will not be with us during commencement this year. He subscribes for the Daily.

—Messrs. O. N. Starr, of Calhoun, and Trammell Starr, of Spring Place, are heartily welcomed among the visitors to Commencement. They are graduates of the first class—'78—and are two rising young barristers. They bid fair to figure conspicuously in Georgia jurisprudence.

—The Phi Mu Society desires to tender many thanks for the express kindness of Mr. Eugene Runion, a former student of the Adger College, Walhalla, S. C., who presented to the Society a valuable book, titled Venn's Duty of Man. Nothing other than an interest does he cherish toward the N. G. A. C.

N. GA. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME.

The Commencement Sermon will be preached this morning at the College Chapel, by Rev. A. J. Jarrell, of Gainesville.

The services will open at eleven o'clock, and a large attendance is expected.

CLINTON HIGH SCHOOL,
Clinton Ga. 5 27 '84.

EDS. SIGNAL:

Dear friends:—Enclosed you will find twenty-five cents, for which please send me the DAILY SIGNAL during commencement week.

I very much regret my inability to attend commencement this year, but I have a live lot of boys and young ladies in school, and can't leave them to go anywhere. There is no one here to take my place, and I shall have to forego the pleasure of being with you. My school will not close until after your commencement. Kindest regards to all.

Your friend, WILL F. JONES.

—We are glad to see the pleasant face of Mr. N. A. Fricks, of Carnesville, Ga., in town. Mr. Fricks is a graduate of the class of '83, was a close student, and since the time of his graduation has been gracefully presiding and blandly smiling over a goodly number of Georgia's youths. He intends the study of law, and we expect to hear much from him in the future.

—We were shown by Mr. Rogers, Taylor's Elastic Bed Bottom, which is certainly the most neat and durable bed spring we ever saw. It is just what all our hotels and boarding houses should be supplied with. Besides being easy and comfortable, there is no place for bugs to harbor about it. You should call and see it at least, as it is something entirely new.

—There is a good business awaiting some live man in the manufacture and sale of Taylor's Elastic Bed Bottoms in this and surrounding counties. They are certainly a household necessity that ought to be on every bedstead in the county. Their elasticity neatness and durability will sell them on sight. Call on Mr. Rogers at B. R. Meaders' and see his sample.

DR. C. H. JONES.

Tenders his professional services to the citizens of Dahlonega and surrounding country in the practice of medicine in all its branches. All calls promptly attended to. Office at his dwelling, West side of Public Square.

A few days ago he approached Mr. Whangup and asked for the small sum of five cents.

"Oh, by the way, Rufe," said Whangup, "I've got some work for you to do, a fence to repair. What'll you take the job for? About two days work."

"Ten dollars," promptly answered Rufe.

"Ten dollars!" gasped Whangup. "The idea: why there's no material for you to furnish."

"I know that," smiled Rufe, "but you must remember the time I'll put in on it. My time is money to me."

"Then you should quit begging."

"Why?" asked Rufe.

"Because, if time is money to you you ought to be pretty flustered, as you've got so much of it to spend in barrooms."—Constitution.

Masonic Celebration.

Blue Mountain Lodge No. 38, F. & A. M., and the brethren of the Fraternity, will celebrate St. John's day, June 24th 1884. Public exercises will be held on Crane's Hill, near Dahlonega, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. Our venerable and distinguished brother, Samuel Lawrence, Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Georgia, will be present and address the people on the subject of Masonry.

The brethren of the fraternity and their families are expected to be present, and are requested to bring with them baskets of provisions, as it is intended to have a good dinner provided for the occasion.

COMMENCEMENT SERMON.

At the College Chapel Yesterday Morning.—A Short
Synopsis.

Yesterday morning was as bright as could be wished, and at eleven o'clock the College bell summoned the expectant people to the Chapel. The Chapel was well filled and every one was comfortably seated.

The choir, consisting of Misses Anna and Mary Lewis, Miss Pauline Patrick and Mrs. W. S. Wilson, and Messrs. L. B. Ramsaur and Hyman L. Richardson, sang as a voluntary the anthem, "Be joyful in the Lord."

The opening hymn was read by Rev. M. D. Turner, "Before Jehovah's Awful Throne." Mr. Turner then led the congregation in a beautiful and impressive prayer.

Rev. A. J. Jarrell then read the lesson, Matthew, 12th ch., 31 to 51, and selected the text, verse 33:

"Another parable spake he unto them—The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened."

OUTLINE OF SERMON.

That one man, Christ, should evangelize the world was a daring prophecy at the time it was uttered—it was impossible to human conception.

We live in an age where 1800 years of the world have become testimony for the truth of that prophecy. Who is a king? He who rules men. No sovereign on the earth has such a hold on the hearts of his subjects as the man of Nazareth. No sovereign on earth has a subject who would rather die than leave his kingdom—at this day Christ has twice fifty millions of people. Jesus moulds the thoughts and sentiments of the world—no one can deny it. He not only rules the world, but is acknowledged as its sovereign. Victoria, in her message to parliament, Alexander, czar of all the Russias, and William, emperor of Germany, in their manifestoes affix the date in the year anno domini 1884. Hume, the infidel, measured his years, his advancement from the cradle, by its distance from the birth in the manger, and dated his last farewell to his friends, A. D. 1776. The year of his master! While he leveled darts of venom against the gospel he paid respect to the glory of Master. Wesley, who spent his years in the service of God, dated his letters A. D. Thus all men have done honor to the man Christ Jesus. Unmeaning form, some say. Will any man explain why all other chronologies have been abandoned? Let the words go forth and stare the centuries in the face—all the world is revolving around the manger of Bethlehem. The impress of Jesus is upon the world as plainly as Caesar's head upon his coin. There is not a government, constitution, charter or statute that he has not purified. Not an alms house, hospital, or asylum, for the alleviation of human suffering but those founded in his love, and that speak his glory. There is not a bad man whose heart has not been moved by him in some measure—not a good man whom he has not purified—not a blessing but he conferred it—not a curse but he alleviated it. He has done ten thousand times more good than all the good men put together. These facts rise like mountains in testimony of the astounding prophecy in the text. Explain them who can—deny them who dare.

The minister begs to unfold the text in its fulness, to show what is contained in the words of it.

The figure in the text is a matchless one. Leaven does its work unless it is cold. Cold leaven is of no effect. The leaven put in 1800 years ago performs a work utterly incapable in human possibilities.

With God's blessing the whole world will be leavened. Time is coming when all men will be like Jesus. Carpenters at the bench will be like him. Ministers will preach like him. Time is coming when all men will be honest; time is coming when hatred will be unknown; evil speaking, thoughts, all will be transformed but love, which will reign. Time is coming when all men shall know God, not in the mind but in the heart. There will be no traps at the feet of the young; everything that leads off from God will cease. Day is coming when court houses, courts and criminals will be unknown.

Day is coming when all business will be done honorably, as if Christ were present. Capital will not combine against labor, and vice versa.

Time is coming when Christ will rule the ballot box; when men will vote as they pray, for the glory of God. Then the wicked will cease to rule. Time is coming when all human agencies and the greatest agency of all, the printing press, will be on God's side. To-day there are issuing from the press all kinds of literature, yellow-backed trash to damn the world. The day will come when the press will elevate the land. When the question will be not what will please the people, and what they will buy, but what is best for them and what will advance the glory of Christ's kingdom.

The time will come under God's direction when America will send the news to Europe, which will be kissed as it is wafted on by every joyful wave of the Atlanta:

"Joy to the world, the Lord is come,

Let earth receive her king;

Let every heart prepare him room,

And heaven and nature sing."

Europe will return the message

"Joy to the earth, the Savior reigns,

Let men their songs employ;

While fields and floods, rocks, hills and plains,

Repeat the sounding joy."

America, Europe, Asia, Africa, the isles of the sea, and the uttermost parts of the earth will echo the chorus:

"No more let sins and sorrows grow,

Nor thorns infest the ground;

He comes to make his blessings flow

Far as the curse is found."

The ministers style was fervid and as the impassioned words fell upon the hearts of his hearers, God's blessing attended them.

After the doxology by the congregation, all were dismissed with the benediction by our venerable chancellor, Dr. Mell.

LOCAL ITEMS.

—P. B. Peterman is in town.

—Rev. W. J. Wootton is here.

—Miss Jane Quillain, of The Glades, is visiting here.

—Mrs. Boyd, of Gainesville, is visiting here this week.

—Mr. John Cobb and his mother, of Ellijay, came in yesterday.

—Miss Tulu Jarrell accompanied her father during his visit here.

—Rev. Mr. Jarrell preached again last night to a large congregation.

—Bruce Crawford, of Morganton, Ga., is in attendance at Commencement.

—John D. Mell, son of our esteemed Chancellor, is visiting here this week.

—J. C. Puckett, of Atlanta, who attended the College here in '78, is among the many visitors.

—Col. John A. Stephens, of Atlanta, a member of the Board of Visitors, arrived yesterday.

—J. R. Gray, of Atlanta, has sent his regrets at being unable to attend and deliver his address.

—Miss Georgia Dowdy, who has been very ill for some time, died at her father's yesterday morning.

—Be sure you carry your DAILY SIG-NAL with you to the College, as it is the only programme that will be furnished.

—Miss Tiny Coleman, a charming young lady and former attendant at this Institution, came in yesterday evening.

—Capt. A. S. Reid, of Eatonton, arrived yesterday. We are glad to have his genial face to brighten our Commencement.

—J. H. Abernathy, of Atlanta, is exchanging smiles with his many friends here. Since his graduation in '79 he has been teaching much of his time, but is now in the mercantile business.

—James I. Coleman, of Talking Rock, a former student, is around shaking hands and swapping jokes with the boys.

He is a talented young man, and has been successfully wielding the rod of pedagogism since the close of his college career.

—Saturday night was the last occasion of the scholastic year for the bosom friends and members of the Phi Mu Society to meet together in the warmly connected ties which have so serenely and beautifully bound them together, and speak to each and all a farewell word.
At the proper time the sad countenances of our departing friends could be seen, burdened with the feelings of the occasion as they each in succession made their appearance before the body, and expressed their impressively sad thoughts.
The loss of three seniors seemed to be greatly felt, and gratifying remarks were made in their behalf. Doubtless this occasion will ever be looked back upon with deep and sincere thoughts, especially by those whose active membership will now cease.

—The is a good business awaiting some live man in the manufacture and sale of Taylor's Elastic Bed Bottoms in this and surrounding counties. They are certainly a household necessity that ought to be on every bed stead in the county.
Their elasticity neatness and durability will sell them on sight. Call on Mr.
Rogers at B. R. Meaders' and see his sample.

—Prof. John W. Henley, Jasper, Ga., has contributed his presence as a well wisher of the College. He has been running a high school at Jasper ever since his graduation, and with considerable success.

—Messrs. Henly and Abernathy and Miss Lizzie R. Chapman, class of '79, are all present, and so far it is the only class entirely represented. We welcome them with camp-meeting grip.

—The Corona Hedera Society will hold it re-union to-morrow afternoon. A cordial reception will be given to all visiting members.

DAHLONEGA, Ga., June 10, 1884.

LOCAL ITEMS.

—Peach trees are breaking under their heavy burdens.

—Robt F. Quillain, of Belton, Ga., is visiting here.

—Geo. Bell, Esq., and lady, of Cumming, are in town.

—Jeff Whelchel, an old student from New Bridge, is on hand.

—The Chapel was about as full as it could well be last night.

—Oh for some of Frank Hall's gas light to set these type by!

—P. Y. Duckett is among the many old student who have returned.

—Rev. A. J. Jarrell and daughter returned to Gainesville yesterday morning.

—The announcement that J. D. Mell was here was erroneous. We make the correction.

—The flume on the Cane Creek ditch just west of town broke through Saturday evening.

—A heavy rain fell yesterday evening about four o'clock, interfering with the skirmish drill.

—Mrs. Barilla Davis and Miss Sue Davis, of Davis district, are at Mr. Fred Boatfield's this week.

—Be sure you carry your DAILY SIGNAL with you to the College, as it is the only programme that will be furnished.

—The Corona Hedera Society will hold its re-union this afternoon. A cordial reception will be given to all visiting members.

—The Corona Hedera Society meets this morning at their room at 10 o'clock. They will be addressed by Professor Mell in the Chapel at 11 o'clock.

Prof. Crusselle is like the nigger's rabbit, "good for a heap o'things," and among others he makes the best reporter for a daily that ever you saw.

—Now g-y-irls, if you didn't get your "blood up" on the mountain the other week, please call at this office and tell our senior where you left it.

—If you want a good photograph—do you know Early Rogers? Well, he's here this week and it's a mighty good chance to get a good picture cheap.

—It is with regret that we announce that our young friend, Geo. M. Napier, of '83, cannot attend the re-union. He is unavoidably detained at his home in LaFayette.

—Cablegram Cigarets, 5c per package. Sweet cider 5c per glass, and the finest line of Fancy Candies, Cigars, Nuts, etc., in Northeast Georgia, always on hand at D. HOWELL & CO'S., Aucaria, Ga.

—Dr. A. F. Underwood, of White county, candidate for State Senator, is in attendance upon Commencement.

—Why is it that at this time of year the whip-poor-will seldom begins his "Woodland Chorus" until after midnight?

—Col. Samuel C. Barnett, of Atlanta, a member of the Board of Visitors to the N. G. A. C., arrived last evening. He is stopping with Prof. Lewis.

—Mr. Richard M. Johnson, professor of Rhetoric in the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, came in yesterday, and is stopping with our worthy President.

—Professor Wilson, Commandant of Cadets, was halted Sunday night by private Will R. Asbury, and required to "advance, friend, and give countersign," before he could pass.

—Mrs. Strickland treated the members of the Senior class very coldly the other afternoon, on ice cream and sherbet. The class appreciates that kind of treatment, and the citizens of the town need not hesitate to indulge.

—It's hard on a poor fellow to work part of the day and all night while the other boys enjoy the society of the many pretty young ladies who are attending the Commencement exercises. But when some of the sweetest girls in town come in and give us a smile of encouragement it goes far towards a reconciliation.

—SIGNAL OFFICE, 9:40 p. m. Dear Girls: The sweet sound of your voices is wafted to me on the soft night zephyrs and I forget the lonely whip-poor-will whose song comes to me nightly from Findley's Ridge. Sing on, dear Coronas, just a little louder, for the benefit of Yours until Morning.

—The prettiest thing we have seen in the way of an invitation was received yesterday evening. It is a folio card from Martha Washington College, Abingdon, Va., announcing the opening of Commencement exercises on the 15th. A detached card bears the names of the graduating class, seven in number.

—Mr. A. G. Anderson, while working in his field about five miles from here on last Friday, had his attention attracted by a bell. Thinking it was stock in the field, he looked around to see, but saw nothing. Presently he heard the bell overhead, and looking up saw a buzzard sailing overhead with a medium sized cow bell on its neck. He would like to know who it belongs to, and where it came from.

—Capt. William Henry Key arrived yesterday evening, with a smile all over his face, and as usual seemed to know everybody he saw. He has just closed a flourishing five months school, and intends entering the St. Louis Law University. He is one of the most popular graduates of the class of '83, of whom all are present except Messrs. W. F. Jones, of Clinton, and M. Whitfield Stanton, of Lake Valley, New Mexico.

Special.

The C. H. S. will meet in their Hall this morning at 10 o'clock.

All the old members, the alumni, and especially the honorary members are invited and requested to meet with the society.

A large attendance is desired.

—We understand that some of our leading stores are speaking of closing their doors at seven o'clock. It would certainly be a good thing, especially during the dull summer months.

The Nomination.

The Republican party has placed its standard bearer in the field.

Blaine is a man of more talent, perhaps, than any other man in their ranks, with the exception of Conkling, who is Blaine's deadly enemy.

Conkling, however, is not in politics now, having shelved himself by his opposition to the Garfield administration. It is not supposed that he now wields any considerable influence in the ranks of the party, but what he does wield will hardly be in favor of Blaine.

Blaine's ambition is unlimited. Once in power he would inaugurate a campaign for a second term before which all minor considerations would have to bow, and which would shape the whole policy of his administration.

We can think of but one amendment to the ticket that we think would have strengthened it. Lincoln for the second place would have been a stronger man than Logan, on account of his historic name, and for that reason alone. With that possible exception it is the very strongest ticket they could have nominated. It will require Tilden and Hendricks to beat it.

N. GA. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The exercises at the College began promptly at nine, with some very interesting experiments in Chemistry.

Next came the declamations by quite a number of students, all from the lower classes. Their subjects were well chosen and handsomely delivered; showing that all they need is time to develop the crude but gigantic powers of oratory they possess.

Were it possible we would give each speaker a personal mention, for many certainly deserved it, but it is impossible to notice all. So, not knowing where to draw the line, we have concluded to mention none.

The exercises through the afternoon were only partially carried out, as the heavy rainfall interfered. The declamations throughout the entire day reflected great credit on the young men, who proved themselves honorable to the Institution.

The skirmish drill at five o'clock was rained out.

C. H. S. ENTERTAINMENT.

In spite of the thunder storm that came up early in the evening, the college chapel was crowded with people anxious to witness a meeting of the young ladies' society—the Corona Hedera—the pride of the College—a noble array of beautiful young womanhood.

The curtain rose at 8:30, amid the cheers of the audience. The society was called to order by the dignified president, Miss Mary R. Lewis. Roll called and minutes read by the secretary, Miss Belle Sutton. Opening chorus by the society, Anvil Chorus from Il Trovatore.

The literary exercises consisted of six recitations by contestants for "Best Recitation" medal, and five original essays for "Best Essay" medal. These medals were offered by the society.

The recitations were, Miss Bessie Murphy, "You put no flowers on my papa's grave;" Miss Jessie Sutton, "Beau;" Miss Columbia Gaddis, "Inchape Rock;" Miss Maud Chapman, "Heliotrope;" Miss Sallie W. K. Price, "Opera Music;" Miss Dorus Stow, "A romance."

The young ladies did themselves honor and each one, as she presented the true thought of her selection by proper tones and modulation, gave proof of patient and careful training. Miss Bessie Murphy's tender melting voice spoke the orphan's grief touchingly. Miss Jessie Sutton's style was faultless. Miss Columbia Gaddis depicted the horrors of the hidden reef at sea. Miss Maud Chapman appropriately told the simple and beautiful story of a spray of heliotrope. Miss Sallie Price, with finely modulated voice, portrayed the ups and downs of opera music. Miss Dorus Stow led us into a romance as readily as if we were all boys again.

The essays were, Miss Belle Sutton, Recollections, Miss Mamie King, Influence, Miss Sallie Whelchel, Our College, Miss Mamie Murphy, Woman's Mission, Miss Massie C. Wills, Milton.

The essays were beautifully written and well read. Miss Murphy was quite hoarse, but read her essay bravely. Would that space would allow synopsis of the essays for every one was a gem and deserves special mention.

Miss Belle Price read the poem Maude Muller with adjectives supplied. She did her part well, and her ingenuity in supplying adjectives was wonderful. "Thanks, said the Judge, a greener draft, From a steeper hand was never quaffed," will show some of the incongruity in supplying words at random—hit or miss.

The music was excellent. Messrs. Hall, Sitton, Richardson, Williams and Holland furnished delightful string music. They call themselves the "Mob"—certainly a talented mob.

The piano was recherche. Misses Anna Lewis and Mamie King, and Mesdames W. S. Wilson, H. H. Perry and A. S. Reid performed with fine touch. Songs were exquisite—amid such excellence who can discriminate? Miss Anna Lewis sang Twickenham Ferry with its joyous yo hoi-he-o-hoi in inimitable style.

Miss Pauline Patrick, of Greenville, S. C., sang Robin Adair beautifully—gloriously. Her voice is marvelous and her control of it wonderful.

When the Flowing Tide comes In, by Miss Belle Price, and Whispering

Hope, by Misses Belle Price and Sue A. Chamberlin, were finely rendered.

The medals will be awarded to-day and all did so well that we think every one has a chance for the prizes.

The audience was quiet and orderly and we congratulate our people that they can show so much appreciation of an excellent entertainment.

Long live the Corona Hedera, Crown of Joy, appropriate wreath for noble brows! Our college is blessed with such a crown, and who shall say which member shines with the most lustre? All are undimmed. C.

policy of placing this power in the legislature, he said he did not want it there. He agreed that in such hands it was unsafe. He wanted it placed in a board with the sole duty to perform this business. Fuller and more complete investigation can be given to each case by a board with that duty to perform. I let to one man his volition is more likely to be contrary to the wishes of the people than that of a board. Bullock, as governor, pardoned a corrupt friend in anticipation of conviction. Collusions between the executive and the officers who have charge of the state finances, are dangerously probable. The speaker read from Blackstone and Story, one showing the inconsistency with democracy to vest the power in the executive, the other showing it equally inconsistent with aristocracy.

Mr. Brannon then re-appeared and amplified the skeleton which he had presented at first. Why should the executive be deprived of this power? Does it require more ability than the other duties of the office? The very fact that he has been exalted to his high position is a clear demonstration of the fact that the people have reposed confidence in him, and deemed him possessed of the necessary qualities. Mr. B's argument was exhaustive throughout, and at its close the president pro tem. rendered his decision for the affirmative, and spread joy in the camp of the Decoras.

The Phi Mus accepted their defeat gracefully.

LOCAL ITEMS.

F. C. Hunt, of White, is here.

To-day is Commencement Day proper. John Berry, of Nimblewill, is at the re-union.

Thos. B. Bell, of Atlanta, was in town yesterday.

Millard Hunt and lady, of White, are in the village.

"Every dog has his day." This un's havin' his night!

—D. G. Hutcherson, of Cherokee, is among the visitors here.

Sherman Riley, an old student from White, came in yesterday.

Miss Harriet McRary, of Hall, is among the many lady visitors.

Douglas Wikle, of the Cartersville American, is here taking notes.

Back numbers of the DAILY SIGNAL can be had by calling at the office.

V. B. McGinnes, of Stilesboro, father of Cadet McGinnes, is in town.

Visitors came in with a rush yesterday to attend the graduation exercises.

Mr. Frank Asbury and wife, of Pleasant Retreat, are at the Burnside House.

Charlie Wikle, of Cartersville, a former student, is smiling around among the boys.

Luther P. Stephens, from Sewanee, an old student of the college, is in attendance here.

Jesse R. Lumsden, Esq., and wife, of Nacoochee, are here to see the closing exercises.

Capt. R. R. Asbury and wife, of Pleasant Retreat, came over yesterday morning.

Joseph A. Richardson, Henry Starr, and Misses Tattie and Allene Starr, all of Nacoochee, came in on yesterday.

Yesterday was a good day for medals. A majority of the medals awarded here during the last ten years were said to be visible.

—The boys are buying new handkerchiefs yesterday, to use at parting in the morning. The girls have had theirs a week.

Two elegant rooms are being fitted up by the Sitton Brothers for the law office of Hon. M. G. Boyd, in the Sitton corner building.

The charming and vivacious Miss Mamie Glenn, and her attractive sister, Miss Anna, of Nacoochee Valley, are at Mr. Wimpy's.

The card from C. on stores closing at 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ , is unavoidably crowded out of this paper. We will give this question space in the Weekly hereafter.

Hon. F. Carter Tate, an old student from Pickens county, came in yesterday. He is also a member of the Board of Visitors, and his visit is one of both duty and pleasure.

It is now nearly time for the students to leave for their homes, and we hope all will have a good time, and return in the fall with light hearts and heavy pockets, ready for a new year of hard work. During vacation some will teach and others will peddle books. The latter is a good business and gives them experience and confidence; and learns them the ways of the world, and how she does business. Go ahead, boys, and success follow you.

We have had the pleasure of meeting a number of the old students, but there are some we have not met as yet. Can't they find time to come around and see us? We have been too busy to look you up, but don't want you to go away before we get acquainted with you. If you see us on the street, come up, give us your name and a handshake. We are not pretty, but we are awful good and O, so nice!

Will. J. Neel, of the Cartersville American, is again among his friends here. Since the close of his collegiate career he has devoted himself to the study of law. He is a ready speaker, and will doubtless rise to an eminence in his occupation.

—We had the pleasure of a call yesterday from Rev. R. L. Campbell, of the Dawsonville News. He is a member of the Board of Visitors, and we found him to be a very pleasant gentleman. He gives a good report for the News.

Mr. Enos Martin, from Walker county, is in the city visiting his nephew, Lieut. R. E. Junkin, who we rejoice to say is in rapid recovery, and will likely be able to return home in a few days.

To-Morrow We Die.

With to-morrow's issue closes the short but brilliant career of the DAILY SIGNAL. We shall go up into no high mountain, after the example of Aaron, and taking off our robes lie down and die, but shall bravely meet our doom right here in Dahlonega where we were born.

We have found life sweet—courtied and flattered by the brightest and best of the land—sought after and bought by beauty and chivalry and intellect—and we cannot say but we are loth to give up a hold on existence. But it is the common lot of all things earthly, and we yield to the decree of fate. We have fulfilled our mission. We have served our purpose on earth. We go hence, but not without the hope of a future existence—a “better day to come.”

We thank those kind and generous gentlemen and ladies who have so cheerfully aided us by their patronage to accomplish the end of our existence; and especially do we wish to bestow our parting blessing upon the heads of our zealous, untiring special reporters, Messrs. J. Ed. Worley, W. S. Coleman, W. C. Martin, J. A. Wardlaw, J. W. Boyd, Professor W. F. Crusselle and Miss Belle S. Price. May they live long and die happy, every one of them!

Our estate will be wound up by our executors, Messrs. Sutton & Son. If you owe us anything, please call on them and settle it. If we owe you, you will find our estate solvent, so call and get your pay.

And now dear readers, we must bid you good bye. To-morrow we will be too full and you'll be too busy.

“Fare thee well, and if forever
Still forever, fare thee well!”

N. GA. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

A very fine crowd assembled at the Chapel yesterday morning.

The programme for the original speeches was temporarily postponed in favor of the prize drill. 14 of the cadets had been chosen for the drill.

The drill was long and the contest stubborn. Three quarters of an hour found Holland, Smith, O, and Cobb, H, alone, and an hour decided the contest for E. B. Holland, and he was awarded the medal.

At 11 o'clock the Corona Hedera Society entered the Chapel, and were addressed by Chancellor Mell. The synopsis which we had prepared would, unless made too lengthy, fail to do justice to the speech, and would give no idea of its simple beauty to those who did not hear it. To those that heard it the impression is lasting.

Then came the awarding of medals by President Lewis. The medal for best essay was awarded to Miss M. Belle Sutton. The medal for best recitation was awarded to Miss Sallie W. K. Price.

AFTERNOON.

At 4 p. m. came the original speeches. The first, J. B. Terry, of Murray, subject: Truth and virtue point the only way to true greatness. His speech was a splendid one, and showed considerable talent. He is impressive, has a fine voice, and with proper training will make an orator.

Next, E. J. Perry, Newton, subject, Seeing the unseen. He handled his subject so well that it would have done credit to a more experienced speaker.

Then came W. B. Jaynes, Richland, S. C., subject: Find the right and maintain it. He is small in stature, but not in ability and talent.

The fourth speaker, L. O. Fisher of Milton, subject, Duty. He has long been known as one of the best speakers of the college, and very successfully sustained his reputation. We would be pleased to give a synopsis of his speech, but time forbids.

J. B. Stribling, Richland, S. C., subject, Pause and reflect. He plainly showed how all our knowledge of mathematics, science, and the beauties of nature, depend upon reflection.

After the speaking Hon. W. P. Price came forward to deliver the teachers' license. Before he commenced he read a letter from Gen. Toombs, explaining why he could not attend. All regret very much that his health would not permit him to be with us.

The speaker then proceeded to deliver certificates to fifty-nine young men and ladies. He then gave an account of the history of the College, showing the vast deal of good that the institution has done the state.

Next came the delivery of medals. The Frank P. Rice medal was won by Mr. S. S. Pearce, of Rockmart. This medal was given for the greatest progress in Latin. It is a perfectly beautiful medal, costing one hundred dollars.

The Will F. Jones Science medal was awarded Mr. J. M. Cavender, Ringgold. Both medals were presented by Mr. H. E. Wilson, of Savannah.

The battalion drill at 5 p. m. was witnessed by a large crowd.

THE NIGHT'S ENTERTAINMENT.

The president, W. S. Coleman, of Talking Rock, introduced Miss Jennie White, Dahlonega, who charmed the audience with a recitation entitled McLane's Child. She assumed the tragic with effective grace and was seated amid tremendous applause. This formed a sort of prelude to the event of the evening—the Champion Debate.

The president then introduced Col. R. M. Johnstone, of Baltimore, Md., as president pro tem. The secretary, J. W. Boyd, Dahlonega, read the question:

Should pardoning power be vested in the chief executive of a state.

H. L. Brannon, Hickory Flat, opened for the affirmative with a synopsis of the argument for his side. If himself and colleague could succeed in proving that the chief executive possesses the ability, the honesty, the integrity, if he felt the responsibility of his duty in the discharge of the functions of pardoning power, he would claim the question. It would be the attempt of the affirmative to demonstrate that reason, experience, history, and philosophic observation pointed with unerring certainty to that side.

F. C. Wilson, of Egypt, was first on the negative. He did not propose to maintain that there should be no pardoning power. In many instances pardon was humane, just, God given; but in a regularly organized board selected for uprightness of principle, integrity of character, honesty of purpose, and the knowledge of human character and the law, should be vested the power to grant mitigation of punishment. The State of Georgia convicts over 300 criminals annually. Of these a great number apply for pardon. Can it be maintained that with all the other duties pertaining to his office that the executive has the time to bestow upon each petition careful consideration that a man's life and liberty demands? One man is more likely to abuse the power than a set of men. It is far easier to corrupt, pollute and bribe one man than a number of men. Expense should not be considered. Good government should be enjoyed regardless of cost. One man is unable and incompetent to exercise that discreet and sound judgment which would result from a board. The executive is not always chosen from those skilled in law. The pardoning power should be vested in a body thoroughly conversant with law. Reason indicates that it is but a relic of despotic and barbaric monarchy for pardoning power to be vested in the executive.

N. G. Canning, Flowery Branch, followed for the affirmative, and after disposing of the arguments of the negative, cited the Mosaic Law as sustaining the affirmative. Also Russia, where the Czar construes and executes law. Blackstone holds that monarchy is best, and there the pardoning power has ever been in the crown. English government is as sound and stable, notwithstanding the crown has been vested with this power throughout what is almost a past eternity. If the executive needs restraining let legislation restrain him—if he needs advice, advise him. When the State Senate was vested with pardoning power there were cases of its gross abuse. No body should be allowed to exercise it when politics and corruption hold sway, and favoritism is encouraged. The larger the body the more likely to be governed by politics. In drafting the constitution by which pardoning power is vested, the best intellect in the state was employed, and it ill became the negative the deprecate an institution which had been handed down through the ages.

The negative was closed by E. S. Cope-land, Dahlonega. Referring to the bad

His very nature writhed in the agony of such a feeling. And but for one thing this suspicion, which was often ill founded, would have turned him into the most malignant of men. Alexander Stephens was no coward. He could not hate in secret, and he could not hate openly without avowed cause.

Stephens' whole life was one of love and affection, of mental and physical anguish. He spent his life in helping others. His charities were indiscriminate—more numerous than he himself could tell. His hospitality was unequalled, his companions unbounded.

How grand and self-sacrificing his life! How fitting that he should die as he did, on the bosoms of his beloved people.

We wish we could devote more time and space to this just tribute to a noble man.

We failed to get the synopsis we expected, and this feeble attempt was written from memory, without notes. It does justice to neither speaker or writer, but our physical being has been too greatly taxed, and we must make our apology.

AFTERNOON.

At 3 p. m. the alumni society held their annual meeting. with very enjoyable results. We failed to get the names of the new officers.

At 6 o'clock came the battalion and artillery drill. For several minutes the cannons belched forth smoke and thunder. One hundred rounds were fired, and the smoke rose in clouds from the campus.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

The closing exercises of the occasion were opened at 8 o'clock last night by the introduction by President Lewis, of the second honor graduate, W. S. Coleman, of Pickens, who addressed the audience in a well matured and well delivered speech upon Genius.

He was followed by his brother, E. W. Coleman, his subject, translated, Know Thyself, which showed deep thought and abstruse learning. He closed with a touching farewell to the college and audience.

Wm. C. Martin, of Murray, came next in a beautiful speech upon Home.

Then followed Miss Massie Wills, of Jackson, the lady graduate, with her really meritorious essay upon Milton, which she read in a clear, well trained voice.

Jas. A. Wills, of Jackson, subject, Agriculture, which was handled with ability, though delivered in so low a tone that we could not hear all of it.

Jas. A. Wardlaw, of Walker, reflected great credit upon himself in his able treatment of his subject, Ask of the Ages. Joseph W. Boyd, of Lumpkin, 1st honor graduate closed with an eloquent and forcible speech upon the subject Improve the Present Time. He aroused considerable enthusiasm and closed with a beautiful and eloquent farewell to college life.

Col. Lewis then read out the roll of honor of the young ladies' department as follows:

Miss Ada F. Smith, 1st honor.
" Dorus Stow, 2d honor.
" Bessie F. Murphy.
" M. Belle Sutton.
" Fannie Reid Lewis.
" Columbia Gaddiss.
" Massie C. Wills.
" Maude Chapman.
" Jessie Sutton.

Then followed the presentation of diplomas by Prof. Mell to the graduates and certificate of proficiency in Botany by Col. Lewis when the audience was dismissed with the benediction, after which the present and former students repaired to the Besser House for a reunion and banquet in which we could not participate.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Good-bye: boys!

—Jack Cavender, an old student from Wahoo, was here yesterday.

A. H. Wheeler has about 20 men who will canvass this vacation for Thayer & Ross of Atlanta.

Hugh Montgomery and Floyd D. Weaver, of Hall county, former students, were at the re-union yesterday.

Auraria was represented last night by Misses Jennie and Ella Wood, Will and Robt. Wood, and Robt. Hutcherson.

The crowd will stampede this morning. Good-bye folks! If you don't see us, shake this little sheet, and know that you carry the hearty good wishes of yours truly.

Just twenty years ago to-day Brigadier-General Leonidas K. Polk, of Joe Johnson's army, gave his life to his country. Another great event: Just twenty years ago to-day the junior hereof took up the burden of life.

All honor to the noble young Americans who so assiduously attended the Battalion on the drill ground yesterday evening. They are an ornament to society, indispensable to their country and a blessing to humanity.

—You've been here now long enough to begin to need a shave, and as you are a stranger in town we will tell you that R. M. Smith's is the place to get it done in the highest style of the art. In rear Col. Price's law office.

It is rumored that the Mayor and Council will be petitioned to change the name of the cemetery, as published in the ordinances, to the "Golden City," it having been known by that name in former days.

We make our bow to Miss Ada Smith of Atlanta this morning for the purpose of asking her pardon for our failure to mention, yesterday morning, the fact that the medal for the best record was awarded to her. How it came to be omitted, is one of those things that no one can account for. Various reporters in different departments, each depending upon the other, etc., may have been the way it occurred. At any rate it was unintentional, and no one regrets it like we do, and we are glad to have lived this one day longer that we may make the amendment honorable to this estimable lady, for an act of unintentional injustice with regard to a prize fairly won and well deserved.

We are pained to announce the serious accident which happened to L. B. Ramsaur Tuesday evening. When the first volley was fired at the skirmish drill, a hack had stopped near the Last Chance to witness. The horses were frightened, and started to run. Mr. Ramsaur, one of the party, jumped out to stop them, but unluckily fell, striking on his head and shoulders. The fall was heavy, and the effect peculiar. Mr. R. did not remember the accident, nor hardly anything which happened that evening. At last accounts he was much better.

—J. M. Berry and wife are at Mr. A. G. Wimpy's. They are accompanied by their 9-year-old daughter, Miss Jessie, who has taken three prizes at the Sunday Schools in Atlanta. She is a granddaughter of Mr. Larkin S. Brownlow, of White.

The annual commencement ball will be given to-night, we hear.

A continuous rain fell from midnight until after 2 this morning.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The programme opened at the Chapel yesterday morning with the usual exercises. The following was sung by the boys:

Ho, ho! Vacation days are here,

Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!

The Chancellor he too is here,

Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!

The Chancellor he's a good old man,

But he's too fat, no doubt of that.

For the Chancellor, for the Chancellor,

Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!

Ho, ho! Vacation days have come,

Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!

The Chancellor he too has come,

Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!

He loves good boys and we are that,

And we love him, and that's a fact,

For the Chancellor, for the Chancellor,

Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!

The first thing of importance was the address of Col. Samuel Barnett, of Washington, Ga., on the subject of popular education.

SUBSTANCE OF COL. BARNETT'S REMARKS.

My talk to-day comes like molten metal out of the depths of my heart. Although popular education is my theme, I fear the treatment is not popular. It came out of my brain—hot, powerfully condensed, and this is the first draft. I ask attention, close, fixed, concentrated, but not protracted. I see men of thought among the students. I throw myself upon you, I trust you. The subject can be announed in few words: Needed in Georgia and the South an Educational Ground Swell. A deep seated movement as of the solid earth itself, its very body, its rock ribs and mountains with all their power. It should be all pervading. The movement should be molecular, involving the action of every atom and particle of society, not merely physical or even chemical; but physiological and psychological, of the body and soul of society. A living, vital, persistent energy is needful. We need in the South instauration magna a reward of learning. The difficulties in our way are numerous; we should appreciate them to be stimulated by them. They are poverty, a scattered population, indifference on the subject, ignorance, political and religious apprehensions. The country needs to be literally set on fire, roused, agitated to feel the need; the platform, press and pulpit should echo to rouse the people and secure their co-operation.

Why is education needed? Do we need argument? Perhaps not, except to stir up our minds by way of remembrance. There are in human life too factors, blood and breeding. Nature furnishes one, art the other. Nearly every influence felt by man will array itself on one side or the other. Without underrating either, we must say that breeding, training, is the more important because it alone is manageable. The object of education is to fit man for life. Life is but a constant adaption to relations, and this adaptation is dependant upon knowledge, and knowledge is but experience—even self knowledge is limited to experience. And so education largely consists of transferred experience; trauffered by tradition, word of mouth, by books the great reservoir of human experience. This principle underlies education—to fit man through an experience 1000 times superior to an individual experience for the manifold and complex life he is to lead. Even the great factors, blood or birth, is in the long run wonderfully affected by training. The child as born is but a residuum of ancestral habits, formed by education of the ancestors. Development is the chief factor. Without training, the child will die; without physical training it will be a dwarf; without mental training an imbecile.

Without training Napoleon, Alexander the Great, and Cæsar, cut off from civilized man, would but have reached the stature of a savage chief.

Advancing civilization demands education; the tendency of the uneducated is towards barbarism. Savages cannot live among civilized people—the Indian races attest the tendency to extinction. Educate the children. Education will not convert an oak into a hickory, but without it it may be stunted. Educate the children, the little rills that make the mighty river.

We have seen the need, difficulties and importance of education; now the means.

The family relation is the basis of all civilization—here is the fountain head of education. With limited means, the best use to be made of them is to develop the latent forces. Here occurs a paradox. Educational supply increases the demand. Establish a school, and you establish an appetite for education; one child goes, a neighbor child follows. Send one boy off to college, you have a neighborhood example.

What should be our aim? Should it be to teach a maximum number the rudiments of knowledge, or to carry a few to the tip top of learning, or to do both? Teach the many the rudiments; some will go on. The larger the number taught, the larger the ambitious number. Give the keys of knowledge to all—some will reach the penetralia. Not that the means of higher education should be neglected—but they will follow.

This is now an established maxim—the means of lower education should be diffused, while that of higher education should be concentrated. I. e., many schools, few universities. This is adapting the supply to the demand. The difficulties of diffusion are peculiarly great. Our condition as a people varies from the sparse population of some rural districts to the dense population of the city. There is infinite room for adaptation. Fortunately at the head of the state department of education we have a clear and long head and a patriotic heart whose voluntary work, outside of his office duties, is of great value.

The speaker beautifully referred to the great educators of Georgia and their adjutants in the cause.

God bless him and his labors, and may he ever look to Dahlonega and her mountains, knowing that the educational idea here is ever ready to heave up and shake the earth in support of his correct principles and his set-on-fire zeal.

At the close of Col. Barnett's address, President Lewis, in a few well chosen words, introduced Col. Richard Malcolm Johnstone, of Baltimore, Md., whose subject was the Life and Character of Governor Alexander H. Stephens. Col. Johnstone was the intimate friend of Gov. Stephens, and his chosen biographer.

The intimacy between the two fitted the speaker for his responsible position. His knowledge of the character of his friend was greatly aided by a powerful command of language, and his hearers were well paid for their good attention.

The speaker in graphic language portrayed the early life of Mr. Stephens. How strong feelings of love were casketed in a feeble body, which was a source of humiliation to him. His early orphanage, and his struggles and bitter trials of early life. His youthful attachments, so beautiful and ardent, were at last crowned with the purest of all—the love for a noble woman. In vain he struggled and fought his hopeless passion, only to make it stronger, and at last fled from the presence of the one he loved, without declaring his passion. In the political field he sought comfort, finding honor but no solace.

Later on in life came the love of mature years. How strong and ardent it was, only those who knew him intimately can conceive. This affection, too, was undeclared. When in later years the speaker asked him why his passion was undeclared, his answer came in a shrill whisper, almost a hiss: "Pride!"

He could not conceive how a woman could look upon his pigmy frame with admiration or affection. His sensibilities were too keen to bear a woman's scorn.

This keen sensibility went with him through life. He often suspected his political compeers of regarding him with pity or compassion. His soul revolted at that.

DAHLONEGA, Ga., July 4, 1884.

WE ARE authorized to announce the name of Dr. ABNER F. UNDERWOOD of the county of White, as a candidate for State Senator for the 32nd district, composed of the counties of Lumpkin, Dawson and White. Election on the first Wednesday in October next.

WE are authorized to announce the name of DAVIS E. SMITH, of the county of Dawson, as a candidate for State Senator for the 32nd district, composed of the counties of Lumpkin, White and Dawson. Election on the first Wednesday in October.

WE are authorized to announce the name of ELBERT C. LEWIS as a candidate for Representative of the county of White, at the election to be held on the first Wednesday in October next.

DAHLONEGA, June 25 1884.

EDITORS SIGNAL:—Will you allow me space in your columns to say to the voters, one and all, of Lumpkin county, that I am a candidate for Sheriff, at the ensuing election in January 1885. If elected, I will do the VERY BEST I can, and perform my duties to the best interests of the county, so far as in my power and ability to do so. Hoping that I may get the suffrage of the majority of voters, I will say to them that they may rest assured that I will make the race.

Respectfully,
JOHN B. THOMAS.
